He made his first attempt at a new nose - pretty....but we had plans for the Ronneberg Nose (actually created by Eric Cobb).

Beagle,

Well, it isn't a "long" nose, but I like it much better than the old nose (see pic).

Second side of new nose bulkhead layed up.
I just got all the foam for the new nose.
Busy weekend ahead!

I suggested he get a "draw saw" - designed in Japan - you pull to cut instead of push to cut...very slim, very accurate.

I thought it might be fun to put all three noses into one picture to show progression:

1. Origional, as I purchased it
2. First nose job, just cleaned up the very front
3. Nose job in progress as of today.

I have to say I am thrilled with the new nose. It changes the entire attitude of the bird.
